Don't Cut Out Foods—Cut Down

Here's the second of a six-part series in a new concept of weight control — re-education of eating habits instead of tricky diets, an everyday program of nutrition instead of fads. Working with NEA's food editor for this article is Dr. Frederick J. Stare, organizer and chairman of Harvard University's unique Department of Nutrition.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — A healthy man or woman does not become overweight between Christmas and New Year's Day, but rather between New Year's and Christmas.

That's the judgment of Dr. Frederick J. Stare, one of the country's top authorities on scientific weight control. He states that excess body weight is usually gained slowly.

No faddist, this world-famous physician-nutritionist warns that the best menus for losing weight must follow the same pattern one is accustomed to. For dieting to be effective, menus must be made up of foods you enjoy, foods readily available, those you can afford.

The secret: don't cut out, cut down.

Dr. Stare is chairman of Harvard University's Department of Nutrition, the first such autonomous department in a great medical and health center. Its staff, headed by Stare who organized the department in 1942, consists of physicians, surgeons and other experts who deal directly with problems of human nutrition.

Weight control is pretty much a lifetime proposition and therefore one must stick to it," he said.

"Fad diets are definitely not the answer. They trap you in a vicious circle of losing and gaining that is hopeless and quite likely to be dangerous. No one is going to live either happily or unhappily for any length of time on just black coffee and eggs, bananas and skim milk, or some supposedly 'fabulous formula.'"

There is no single food that must be banned in a reducing diet. Include a wide variety of foods in your daily menus to assure a balanced diet essential to body health.

Potatoes, sugar and bread, often accused of making a person "fat", are important foods and need not be passed up entirely. With them, as with all other wholesome foods you enjoy, if you want to lose weight the trick is this simple, according to Stare:

Small servings and no second helpings.

We talked in the red brick ivy-covered building at 1 Shattuck St., one of the oldest in Harvard's great medical and health center. The slender, clear-eyed, tireless Stare, who looks 25 but is 47, suddenly stood up, saying, "let's eat."

Santoro Quits As Councilman In Tullytown

Borough Solons Name Appointees To Several Jobs

By BOB REINHARDT
Courier and Times Staff Writer

Tullytown Borough council, which has sometimes spent months deliberating a single appointment, pulled a change of pace last night at its postponed regular meeting.

In hardly more time than it takes to report it, Council appointed a new president, a new councilman, a new member of the Lower Bucks County Joint Municipal authority, and a new fire marshal, and approved the provisional hiring of a new policeman.

Councilman Charles S. Mitchell, 275 Lakeside drive, Democrat, is the new president. His appointment was by acclaim, succeeding Peter A. Santoro who resigned from council entirely, as well as rejecting his contested appointment to the Authority.

Annual Salary

But Mr. Santoro's wife, Goldie, got the authority appointment, a post that pays $2500 a year by virtue of the members holding authority offices.

Councilmen Michael Piroli and Joseph Cutchinal, Democrats of old Tullytown, opposed Mrs. Santoro's appointment by voting for Ernest Johnson. The other five councilmen supported her.

Mr. Santoro's vacant seat on Council was filled by another Democrat, Daniel R. Friday, 204 Lakeside drive, Levittown, Mr. Friday, 31, is a stress analyst for Hunter-Bristol corp., and a member of the church council of Christ Lutheran church.

Two Opposed

Councilmen Piroli and Cutchinal opposed Mr. Friday's appointment to vote for former Councilman John Luciano. The other four votes went to the winner.

Paul Grady, Jr., Tullytown fire chief, was made fire marshal with two abstentions. Councilmen Friday and William Major, who wanted to first ask fire company for a written recommendation.

John Steen, former fire chief and a former borough policeman, was approved as temporary replacement for Patrolman Philip Fitzpatrick, who resigned from the force. He must take a physical examination and receive a passing grade in a non-competitive civil service test before being hired, then faces possible competition from later applicants.

Mr. Mitchell, stepping out as police committee chairman to be

Official Says Law Applies To Bridge Unit

Deputy Attorney General Disputes Defense Contention

Frank Lawley, state deputy attorney general, declared emphatically this morning that former commissioners of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission are public officers of the state and therefore subject to the criminal laws of the state.

Arguments on the case ended shortly before noon today. Concerning the four indictments on conspiracy, attorney Eugene R. Lippman, New Hope, representing Taney, said the indictments should not stand because the men are not listed as public officials and are therefore protected by the two year statute of limitations.

The state is prosecuting the charges against the men under a six year statute of limitations which applies to public agencies of the Commonwealth, Lawley claims the commission is an agency of the state.

However, the deputy attorney general admitted the information did not call the ex-bridge officials public officers.

He said that if the court thought it was necessary he would file new indictments before a Bucks county grand jury calling the men "public officers."

Mr. Lawley flayed the position of attorneys for the former commissioners who yesterday said the commission was a private corporation, not responsible to the laws of Pennsylvania or New Jersey.

In Bucks County argument court this morning, he cited Supreme Court decisions he said call the commission an agency of Pennsylvania. He also claimed the motions to quash indictments against the commissioners were improper because "you can't move to quash after bail has been set." The former commissioners are held under $2500 bail each. The deputy attorney general

Canine Gratitude

Still cold from a night spent in a Levittown storm sewer, a grateful mongrel dog nuzzles up to Tom Dilorio, an employee of the Lower Bucks County Joint Municipal Authority, who saved him. Called to Beechtree road and Blue Ridge drive, Levittown, by Bristol township police, Mr. Dilorio heard the dog's barks at the sewer inlet. The dog was in an understreet pipe, and in running to his rescuer fell into the sewer. Mr. Dilorio climbed down into the water to save the dog. The authority employee has saved four people from drowning on various occasions. He lives at 15 Newpond lane, North Park, Levittown.

Levitt Hikes Price $500 For Five Home Models

An increase of approximately $500 across the board on the five models of Levittown homes was announced today by Levitt and Sons, Inc.

A spokesman for the firm said increased prices went into effect yesterday.

The bad news for new home buyers was good news for present home owners as a Lower Bucks real estate broker pointed out that the increase should mean better prices on the resale market for present Levittown homes.

Jubilee Jr.

The Jubilee Jr. style home, previously priced at $10,500, will now sell for $10,990, an increase of $490.

A new style Levittowner including three bedrooms and two baths went on display two weeks ago and is priced at $11,500. It was formerly sold for $10,990.

Jubilee prices increased from $11,990 to $12,500, a rise of $510. However, the Levitt spokesman noted, there are still a few Jubilees remaining in the Cobalt Ridge section that are available at the old price.

Pennsylvanian prices rose from $14,500 to $14,990 and Country Clubbers are retailing for $19,990, an increase of $490.

Youth Caught With Weapons

A 17-year-old Neshaminy High School boy was arrested by Lower Southampton police yesterday and charged with larceny and carrying concealed weapons in his auto.

A resident of Wood road, Oakford, the youth was taken into custody by Chief Edward Wunsch, Sgt. Frank Walters, and Sgt. John Wagner, of Lower Southampton police. They picked him up at the high school and questioned him at police headquarters for five hours yesterday afternoon.

The boy, who was detained in Bristol borough jail, was also questioned by Bensalem and Middletown police. He allegedly stole woodworking equipment from Neshaminy High school and had caps from in front of the Trevose Fire house.

He said he had a black-jack, pistol, and pellet pistol in his car for "personal protection," according to Chief Wunsch.

He will be arraigned at a hearing today and taken to county prison by order of Robert Shields, county probation officer, to await the next hearing of juvenile court, according to Chief Wunsch.

Frenchtown Girl Dies Of Injuries

A 19-year-old Frenchtown, N.J., girl died last night of injuries received in a three-car accident Sunday in Doylestown.

The girl, Elsie Allegar, died at midnight in Doylestown Emergency hospital of head injuries including a cerebral contusion.

A driver of one of the cars, Fred Froehlich, 22, Jamison, will be held on involuntary manslaughter and assault and battery by automobile charges.

The girl's death was the first automobile accident death for Doylestown since 1954, and the sixth for Bucks county in 1957, said.

Congressional Leaders Set Discussion

President Plans To Meet With Secretary Dulles

WASHINGTON — UP — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today that President Eisenhower will discuss with congressional leaders tomorrow the question of sanctions against Israel if she refuses to withdraw her forces from Egyptian territory.

President Eisenhower flew back from Thomasville, Ga., where he cut short a vacation to deal with the Middle Eastern situation. He expected to confer with Dulles shortly after his arrival around 3 p.m. (EST) and will meet with Democratic and Republican congressional leaders tomorrow.

Hides Stand

Dulles would not say whether the administration now favors sanctions against Israel if she does not comply with a United Nations resolution calling for the withdrawal of Israeli troops from the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aquaba. Dulles said the sanctions issue will be discussed Wednesday in what he called an open-minded way—along with other Middle Eastern problems.

Dulles told an overflow news conference that the United States still hopes Israel will change its mind and withdraw its forces.

Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban leaves New York today for Jerusalem to report on the stalemate U.S.-Israeli negotiations for withdrawal of the Israeli occupation forces.

Dulles said he hoped Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief American U.N. delegate, would be in Washington for the Dulles-Eisenhower talk this afternoon and the conference with congressional leaders Wednesday morning.

The Secretary said it is possible that after these two meetings the United States might go to the United Nations with a program of its own. But he said this government has not decided whether to take the initiative in any U.N. action resulting from Israeli defiance.

Dulles also: —Said the United States would deplore any move by Egypt to delay opening of the Suez Canal. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 3)

Theft Curdles Honeymoon Bliss

A Newtowner's honeymoon turned a little sour Sunday.

Newtown Police Chief Edward H. Bateman said William R. Yerkes' service station, Sycamore street at Richboro road, was broken into early Sunday while the owner and his bride were honeymooning in Florida.

Chief Bateman said some $28 was taken from the ransacked station. Thieves entered by breaking a rear window, the chief said.

Two Ports Delaying End Of Dock Strike

NEW YORK —UP— Disagreements between union locals and employers in Baltimore and Norfolk, Va., threatened today to prolong indefinitely the East Coast dock strike.

It appeared likely that, despite a contract agreement here Sunday, most dock activity between Maine and Virginia would remain at a standstill until the end of the week, at least.

Philly Settles

PHILADELPHIA — UP — Federal mediator John R. Murray announced today that a "Complete agreement" had been reached in negotiations here in the seven day strike of some 6,000 longshoremen in the Port of Philadelphia.

A back to work movement was not expected to begin however until agreements had been reached in all ports in the strike of longshoremen along the East Coast.

New York Shipping Assn. stood in the way of a back-to-work movement of 45,000 longshoremen. It had been expected that agreements would be reached in other East Coast ports within 24 hours after the New York settlement.

Meanwhile, hopes for an end to the tug strike, that has idled 400 craft in New York Harbor, rose Monday night when the employer group submitted a six year contract offer covering working conditions, which had been the key stumbling block to a settlement.

Yankees Get Bobby Shantz

NEW YORK — UP — The New York Yankees announced today they had acquired pitchers Art Ditmar and Bobby Shantz and infielder Cletis Boyer from the Kansas City Athletics in a trade. The Yankees gave up outfielder Ivy Noren, infielder Billy Hunter and pitchers Mickey McDermott, Tom Morgan and Rip Coleman.

One additional New York player will be assigned to the Athletics by April 15, Yankee General Manager George Weiss announced.

Baseball men saw the deal as another in the long series of Yankee trades aimed at getting one more good year out of a supposedly washed-up star with the diminutive Shantz figured as the key to the package.

Banquet Set By Chamber

Members of the Greater Lower Bucks Chamber of Commerce this week are receiving invitations to the Chamber's 11th annual banquet, to be Tuesday, March 5, at William Penn Junior High school, Fairless Hills.

The Chamber's activities of the past year, including the recent expansion of its leadership and representation, will be reviewed at the dinner, which will also include an outstanding speaker and the first public showing of "Building for Tomorrow," a motion picture about the growth of Lower Bucks county.

Chamber President William A. Aitken predicted the event will attract several hundred leaders in business, industry, and the professions.

U.S. Bomb Shelters Urged

Experts Testify To Urgency

WASHINGTON — UP — A House subcommittee on civil defense appeared ready today to recommend a multi-billion dollar outlay for construction of public shelters against atomic attack.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Chet Holifield (D-Calif.) temporarily wound up its hearings on the issue yesterday after Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson disclosed he has proposed such a shelter program to the White House.

Peterson said he was willing to abide by the White House decision, whatever it may be. The subcommittee, in the face of indications the White House verdict will be negative, left no doubt it will approve a bill to make the shelter work mandatory. The subcommittee's eight members early in January introduced identical bills to put the federal government in charge of civil defense, under a new cabinet-level secretary, and to order the construction of group shelters "in each target area."

They did so on the basis of study over the previous two years. At the public hearings they heard one expert after another testify that shelters must be built now for everybody, in and out of the target areas, to prevent millions of deaths from blast, fire, and radioactive fallout in event of an atomic attack.

Soap Box Derby Sponsors

Tim Fahey (left) of the Levittown Kiwanis Club signs up the first two Soap Box Derby car sponsors for Lower Bucks County's first annual race to be held June 15. The sponsors are Lennie Kessler (center), representing Jubilee Bowling Lanes, and John Hendershot, owner of J-H Motors, Morrisville. Luciano Brothers of Tullytown also signed to sponsor a boy in the 1957 Soap Box Derby which is being staged by the Courier and Times in conjunction with Reedman Motors, Weed Chevrolet and seven area service clubs. The Derby committee met last night at Jubilee Lanes.

Falls Picks Democratic Candidates

Following a stormy session last night, David Struble of Levittown was endorsed as candidate for Falls Township tax collector by the township Democratic party.

A record number of Democrats turned out for the meeting in the Oxford Valley Elementary school, Fairless Hills.

The principal battle of the evening matched Struble against Constantine Mitchell of Levittown for the tax collector slot. Final balloting gave Struble 173 votes to 75 votes for Mitchell.

Howley For Supervisor

Edward R. Howley, Fairless Hills, was unanimously endorsed as candidate for township supervisor. He is a member of Local 4289, United Steel Workers of America (AFL-CIO) and is a grievance man at the Fairless Works of U. S. Steel.

For assessor, Paul Terrels of Levittown defeated Anthony Di Pompei, also of Levittown, by a vote of 147 to 67. Jerry McFadden of Pennsbury Heights received 27 votes.

School Board Candidates

Mrs. Bernice Kessler and Richard Davis, both of Levittown, were endorsed as school board candidates.

Mrs. Lenore Piscione, Levittown, Paul Falen, Fairless Hills, and Mrs. Heneritta Edelschein, Levittown, also sought endorsement for the school board director posts.

Jack O'Brien of Levittown was without opposition in his bid for endorsement as auditor.

Levittown 'Cyclist Injured In Crash

Victor Tiso, 13, of 33 Grapevine road, Goldenridge, Levittown, suffered a broken right arm in a collision with a taxi while riding his bicycle.

The cab driver, Morris Brick, 35, of 32 Elderberry drive, Levittown, told Patrolman George Neill, Bristol Township police, he was driving on Goldenridge drive and slowed down near Granite road to look at the street sign.

He spotted the boy coming out of Granite road on his bicycle. At the last minute, he said, the boy swung to the left and hit the left side of the cab. The impact knocked the boy from the bicycle and he broke his arm when he fell to the ground.

Union Workers Quit On School Project

Union workers walked off the construction site of the James Buchanan school site, Haines road, Levittown, yesterday in face of pickets protesting use of non-union help, but work continued uninterrupted.

Pickets from the Philadelphia Trades council appeared on the site yesterday. Plumbers, pipe fitters, and hating and ventilation workers, all union members, refused to cross the picket lines. However bricklayers and carpenters who are non-union reported to their jobs and continued working.

Under Scale

John Hennelly, business agent for Local 1 of the Bricklayers union who is in charge of the picketing, said non-union workers were being paid less than the "prevailing wage."

He added that the specifications for the contract stated workers must be paid according to the "prevailing rate" of the area.

This rate he said, is $3.92 an hour for bricklayers and $3.38 for carpenters. He said the carpenters on the job were getting as low as $2.75 an hour.

Month's Work

Daniel Camburn, foreman for the Raymond Luken Construction company, general contractors, said work could continue for another month or more without interruption. He said the bricklayers could continue for some time before they had to wait for the claims the legal remedy for the commissioners is a habeas corpus proceeding. This would bring an immediate hearing on the charges.

Mr. Lawley admitted that such corporations as the commission might be separate entities, but he said all are subject to the criminal laws of the state.

He said the statute of limitations covers these agencies of the commonwealth.

He explained, "We say that the compact (the two-state compact between the Commission) put the Commission in the same position as any other public agency. The criminal laws of both states apply, if crimes are committed in either state."

Meanwhile, a bill to bar payments of salaries to members of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission "definitely" will be introduced in the New Jersey State Legislature March 18, according to Assembly Majority Leader Arnold W. Smith.

Smith said Monday night the measure "will be the same bill" as the one in the Pennsylvania legislature now pending which would prohibit payments to commissioners, except for authorized expenses.

'Hit Parade' Plans All New Voices

NEW YORK — UP — The entire cast of NBC-TV's "Your Hit Parade" will be replaced next season, the American Tobacco Co., sponsor of the show, announced today.

Singers Jil Corey, Virginia Gibson and Tommy Leannetti will join the show. They will take the place of G. Sele Mackenzie, Dorothy Collins, Russell Arms and Roy "Shokey" Larson.

10-Room Wing Is Considered By Neshaminy

Neshaminy Joint School Board is considering adding 10 rooms, at a cost of $110,000, to its junior high building, it was learned at last night's meeting of the Middletown Township school board. The rooms will be needed by next September.

Middletown is one of the major members of the Neshaminy jointure.

Three Methods

Walter Carter, a member of the joint board building committee, told the Middletown group that three ways of adding the rooms are being considered.

One, he said, would be conversion of the present bus garage. The second is the erection of temporary quarters and the third is construction of a permanent structure as an addition to one of the present wings.

Mr. Carter said he favored the last proposal, which would cost $112,000. He said the cost was not much more than for the other two proposals.

In Agreement

Several other Middletown directors agreed with Mr. Carter. However, he said, the decision is up to the joint school board.

Dr. Oliver Heckman, regional superintendent of the joint system, said the rooms are needed to prevent overcrowding and staggered or split classes next fall.

Authority Funds

He pointed out that the Lower Bucks County School Building authority, which constructed the Neshaminy junior and senior high schools, has about $62,000 left. Of this, $30,000 could be used for the new classrooms. The rest would have to be raised out of current income or by floating a bond issue.

Library Drive Gets Assist

Members of the Levittown Exchange Club will assist in the solicitation to be conducted by the Industrial Committee for the Levittown Public Library Building Fund Drive, it was announced today by Daniel Miller, general drive chairman.

The Industrial Committee, under the direction of David Hodgins, Sr., 18 Sycamore road, will contact area industry in connection with the $50,000 community-wide campaign opening officially on March 1. Funds will be used to erect a library building on the plot of ground recently donated by Levitt and Sons at Levittown and Millcreek Parkways.

Grant Muschitz, 46 Serpentine lane, president of the Exchange Club, said the entire membership organization will support the fund drive and named William Baar, 11 Wildrose lane, and David Sturgeon, 4 Ivy lane, Yardley, to head committees, to work directly with Mr. Hodgins.

Another Exchangeite, W. Eugene Beck, Newportville road, has been named chairman of the Business and Professional division of the Library Fund Drive.

Morrisville Lad Is Recovering

A 14-year-old Morrisville boy was recovering rapidly this morning from a fall Sunday from the back of a truck.

Larry Chapman, 344 Crown St., was taken to Mercer County hospital after falling from the truck as he was unloading newspapers for his route.

The boy was expected to be released tomorrow, following a 72-hour stay in the hospital for observation, his mother said this morning.

By JIM ORT

Footnote to the diligent ladies of the Bristol Township League of Women Voters for their interesting survey on area police departments, Tullytown policemen are now working approximately 56 hours a week, Burgess Rentschler told Borough Council last night. This is temporary, but will continue about a week until they can replace Phil Fitzpatrick, who resigned from the force.

Payment Ordered In Larceny Case

A larceny charge against a Morrisville man will be dropped tomorrow after payment of $30 in restitution and $15 in costs, Chief John Davis said today.

Evelyn Sipler signed a complaint against Ray T. Repp, 608 Fairhill road, Grandview estates, for theft of an electric razor.

Officer Joseph DiGiorgio arrested the man yesterday and brought him before JP Harry Christ.

Repp was released when he promised to pay for the razor and the costs tomorrow.

Woman Finds Tax 'Return' Hard Task

A Levittowner can tell you it's an awful hard job to give tax money back.

Lt. Commander Ralph Taylor, Jr.'s wife, 156 Crabtree drive, received two tax refund checks in the mail from the Philadelphia offices of the Bureau of Internal Revenue — both for an identical amount.

Mrs. Taylor reasoned that one was a duplicate and should be returned. She attempted. She attempted three separate calls to the Philadelphia office. Each time the bureau insisted the Levittown woman had received only one check.

Each call necessitated two to three inter-office transfers. Each voice became increasingly impatient that duplicates were not sent out.

The third call was the charm, though. Finally, Mrs. Taylor was able to convince the revenue people that two refund checks were, indeed, received. She promptly returned one check, keeping the other.

Kaiser Man Dies At Work

James Primmer, 38, of 345 Jackson street, Bristol, suffered a fatal heart attack yesterday afternoon while working at the Kaiser Metal Products plant.

Mr. Primmer reported for work on the night shift at 3:10 p.m. After changing his clothes he went to the sheet steel storage department where he apparently bent down to pick up a piece of cable.

Deputy Coroner Louis Galzerano said Mr. Primmer apparently suffered the attack when he tried to pick up the cable. He pitched forward and fell behind a three-foot pile of sheet steel.

He was discovered by two other workers who were passing by. They took Mr. Primmer to the dispensary.

He was pronounced dead at 4:20 p.m. Galzerano said death was caused by a heart attack.

Mr. Primmer, a native of Trenton, was employed at the Kaiser plant since 1950. He is survived by his wife, Marion Navetta Primmer; an eight-year-old daughter, Kathleen; his mother, Mrs. Filomena Mystem, Trenton, two brothers, Nicholas and Frank, of Trenton, a sister, Mrs. Pat De Palmer, of Connecticut.

Santoro Resigns Councilman Post council president, gave the chairmanship to Republican Councilman Edward B. Boyer. Mr. Friday was appointed to fill a vacant spot on the police committee.

Mr. Mitchell is a Democrat, elected to Council in November, 1955. He is employed as a leader-man for the Edward G. Budd Co.

Mr. Santoro due to sickness, did not attend the Council meeting. A letter based his Council resignation on "added personal responsibilities, plus the fact that I have been plagued by illness and cannot give the time and energy required."

Report has it that the smooth sequence of appointments was worked out at a caucus of borough Republican and Democratic leaders on Sunday afternoon. Council recessed after the biggest appointments were completed, then attacked new business in less harmonious fashion.

Action to restrict Brown street to one way traffic, south from Fallowing avenue, was taken by ordinance, but Mr. Pirolli later won his point that it should be done first on a temporary basis, to see the public reaction.

Council moved to go ahead with plans to expedite the flow of traffic on Levittown parkway, including traffic light signals at Lakeside drive and Spur lane, exchange left lane for drivers going up the parkway to enter the Levittown Shopping center, and a paved passage across the dividing strip to make a left turn to the St. Michael's church entrance.

The plans were described by Mr. Major, who is borough engineer, and recommended by Police Chief John B. Walterick and Mr. Cutchineal, highway committee chairman.

Budget Draft

Mr. Pirolli, finance committee chairman, said his committee will meet Thursday night to draft a budget to present at the March Council meeting.

Mr. Major said he has received papers for the borough to sign, enabling the State Departments of Forests and Waters to clean, widen, and relocate Martins creek from the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks downstream past Main street to the swamp, to end a flood menace.

Mr. Pirolli recommended the appointment of Alan R. Nay, 240 Kenwood drive, Levittown, as Civil Defense director, succeeding Ulrich Frank, who moved to Lower Makefield township. Mr. Mitchell asked that any other prospective nominations be given to him for action at the next meeting of Council.

Burgess Frederick Rentschler said he was informed the new police car, a month late in delivery, will be on its way from the factory tomorrow.

The Burgess opened the meeting, in the absence of Mr. Santoro, Council made Mr. Mitchell chairman pro tem before electing him president.

Traffic Drive Paying Off

A crack down on traffic violations in Middletown Township apparently is paying off—there hasn't been an auto accident in the township for 16 days.

The last accident reported to police was shortly after noon on Sunday, Feb. 3. At that time cars driven by George Hessler, Jr., 23, of 840 Avenue E, Parkland, and William Hill, 35, of Philadelphia crashed on Route 1, near the Roosevelt Drive-in.

Police Chief Howard C. Shook said the accident drought is "certainly one of the longest—if not the longest—in recent history."

106 Traffic Tickets

He explained that his department has handed out 106 traffic tickets so far this month compared to an average of 100 for a whole month.

"It looks like the drive is paying off," the chief said.

One of the violations being pressed by the police officers is passing school buses while they are stopped to pick up or discharge children.

Chief Shook said his men have issued "at least a dozen" so far this month to motorists on Route 1 for passing stopped school buses.

"The law says cars must stop when a school bus does. This means any place, except a divided highway," the chief added.

Truck Weight Law Is Signed

HARRISBURG — UP — Gov. George M. Leader has signed into law amendments to the state vehicle code which increase the number of truck weight classes from eight to 31.

The legislation, introduced in the House, sets up the additional weight divisions for licensing purposes so that trucks can register their vehicles more closely to the limits specified by safety regulations.

The law creates intermediate weight classes so that a commercial vehicle will not be required to carry considerably less than the maximum weight allowed by the brake regulations.

Boro Pupils Have Long 'Weekend'

Pupils in the Bristol borough public schools will start their "weekend" tomorrow afternoon as the teachers participate in the eighth annual workshop.

The workshop will be held in the Warren Snyder elementary school Thursday and Friday, with Dr. Dugald Arbuckle, author, lecturer and professor of education and admissions director of Boston University, as consultant.

The teachers will divide into five groups to discuss "How can we best inspire and develop a growth in the pupils' interest in learning?"

Two-Unit Site Is Suggested For Economy

Tremendous savings were seen in a plan to construct a junior high school and an elementary school, for Levittown, as one unit. The plan was unfolded at last night's meeting of the Middletown Township School board.

Tellow said under the proposal, originally suggested by Dr. Charles H. Boehm, state superintendent of schools, the junior high school would be built first and the elementary later.

Tellow said the savings would come from using the same gymnasium, auditorium, cafeteria, and library for both schools. In addition one heating unit could serve the two schools, he said.

All of the facilities, but the library, would be built with the junior high school. It is hoped, Tellow said that the junior high would be ready for at least partial occupancy by September, of 1958.

The elementary school would come a year after the junior high school. The two schools would be built on a site, still to be purchased, near the intersection of Trenton road and Route 413. Most of the pupils would come from Levittown.

School director Walter Carter predicted "tremendous savings" would come from the plan.

Dr. Oliver Heckman, regional superintendent of Neshaminy schools, said great savings would be affected in the cafeteria and kitchen equipment alone. He explained that lunch hours could be scheduled to keep mingling of elementary and junior high school pupils to a minimum.

Census Asked

In other business the board voted to apply for a census of the township by the U. S. Census bureau. The bureau asked for 12 maps of the township and an advance check of $800 for the project. The bureau estimated the project would cost $1500 for a population of 8000. The school directors voted to send the money and maps.

The census is part of the school board's plan to advance to third class district must have a third class school district. A population of less than 5000, based on an official census.

The township, which had a population of 4987 in the 1950 census, is now a fourth class district. A fourth class district is more restricted in the amount of taxes it can impose.

The directors also voted to pay $26,000 to the Neshaminy Joint School board as part of its 1955-56 tuition. Mr. Tellow explained the money was for enrollment in excess of what the township had estimated.

He predicted that the township would have a bill of about $100,000 for pupils over the estimate for the current school year.

Sidney T. Yates, new solicitor, reported on progress of his negotiations for purchase of the planned junior high school in an executive session of the school board following the regular meeting.

During the regular meeting the directors approved payment of a $1259 bill to former solicitor Myron W. Harris. This was his final bill, for 18 months.

Firemen Arrive As Blaze Is Out

Firemen of three Bristol companies were called to the Bristol Steel Treating Co. plant, Pinegrove street, at midnight, when a 1000-gallon tank of oil used in treating steel parts blazed up, apparently ignited by red hot metal.

Workmen covered the tank with a metal lid to smother the fire before firemen arrived. Bristol Consolidated and No. 2 and No. 6 companies answered the alarm.

Building Code Is Suggested In Morrisville

Morrisville's ordinance committee will study the possibility of enacting a building code in the borough, Edward Mannix, chairman, said today.

The ordinance committee in conjunction with the Morrisville Planning commission and the fire committee will examine all aspects of a code at a joint session of the groups.

Mr. Mannix said he "personally favors" a building code for the borough but will entertain all aspects of the question before presenting any proposal to council.

"At present," he said "builders can use any type of construction on buildings in Morrisville."

Zoning Restrictions
"Builders are only restricted by zoning ordinances. Once they satisfy all conditions of a zoning ordinance, they can build with any material they desire."

"A building code will provide definite restrictions in construction."

"Now there are some buildings in the borough that are not constructed with adequate fire protection."

"A building code will prevent any of these fire hazards from ever coming into being," Mr. Mannix said.

The meeting is set for late this month with a definite date to be announced. The results of the meeting will be presented to council at a later session.

Police Hunt Bullet Holes

Morrisville police were checking an empty Melvin avenue home in Grandview Estates today after receiving reports that bullet holes had pierced windows in the building.

Tox Doxey, president of the Grandview Estates Civic association who lives at Elbridge road and Delorro drive in Grandview Estates, made the complaint to the police.

Doxey told police bullet holes, somewhat larger than a 22 caliber, had been found in the building.

It was also reported the house was rummaged through and a heater and thermostats in the house had been disturbed.

Officer Joseph Cavanaugh of the Morrisville police investigated.

Morrisville Library Faces Shutdown

Morrisville school children, who will be hardest hit if a shutdown is necessary, were facing a "sink or swim" situation in the Morrisville library's plea for $500.

Officials of the Morrisville Women's club, sponsors of the 6000-volume library in the Church of the Incarnation, North Pennsylvania avenue, called the situation "critical" this morning.

A fund drive in the fall fell short of the goal. A tentative budget of the Borough Council calls for a $500 donation to this year's library fund.

Possible End
Mrs. Frank Lorimer, publicity chairman of the library said, "If we can't raise another $500 from Council, we will have to shut our doors."

"We have been operating independently of outside help but the situation has become serious."

"The Council donated $300 to the library two years ago and $500 last year. If we don't get another $500 for this year above the $500 we've been promised, we're out of business."

Growth
"The library has been growing by leaps and bounds. We feel we have been doing a service to the

Pennsbury Seniors OK'd For College

The first group of seniors from Pennsbury High school to be accepted into college were announced today.

Many more have applied and acceptances are received daily and will be announced at later dates.

The first acceptees and the schools are Brenda Druckenmiller, Westminister college; Carol McComsey, Westminister; Rosalie Doetsch, East Stroudsburg State Teachers college; Martha Allen, Wooster college; Louise O'Neil, East Stroudsburg State Teachers; Connie Landis, Bryant Business college; and Rita Furley, Mount Saint Agnes college.

Also Ruth Glisson, Rider college; Robert Young, Franklin and Marshall college; Frederick Kafes, Franklin and Marshall; Marie Dankanich, Temple; Carol Wild, Temple and Ginny Fritz, East Stroudsburg State Teachers college.

Thorough Parking Survey Promised

Morrisville Councilman James Magee promised a "factual survey" of parking needs in the area for airing at the public hearing March 5 on the Washington street extension proposal.

The open hearing for the public view on the question will be held at the VFW home on Hillcrest avenue, at 8 p.m.

Magee said his survey will include the present and future parking needs of the borough in the area in question in the downtown section of Morrisville.

The survey will be concentrated along East Bridge street and the railroad tracks in the center of town.

Lot To Say
Magee was unwilling to say what preliminary facts the survey has uncovered.

"I'll have a lot to say on the matter at the public hearing," the councilman said.

"We haven't completed it yet and I'm hopeful of compiling all the pertinent information in time for the hearing," he said.

The survey will include conditions of parking during normal morning and afternoon rush hours as well as during the afternoon shopping hours.

All interested parties in the street extension will be invited to attend the open session and express their views to council. The site of the public hearing was switched to the VFW home to accommodate the anticipated number of persons expected to attend.

Councilman Neal Nolan, presently on vacation and out of the borough, requested the change of date from the proposed Feb. 20 to the March date.

Hearing Is 'Courtesy'

A public hearing, such as the one on the Washington street extension in Morrisville, is only a courtesy to the public and has no legal bond on councilmen, David Clarke, Morrisville borough solicitor said today.

Council only calls a public hearing to get the different views of interested parties, Mr. Clarke said.

"The councilmen are not obligated one way or another by the results of a hearing," he said.

After the public hearing is over, it's still up to the councilmen to make a decision as they see fit," the solicitor said.

Capitol View To Present 25-Year Pins

Ten members of Morrisville Capitol View Fire company will receive pins and life memberships Saturday for 25 years of active service at the company's annual banquet.

Dr. James Klenk will receive a posthumous award from the company.

John Flynn, president of the company, said final arrangements for the banquet will be made at Thursday's regular meeting.

The banquet is set for 6:30 Saturday night at Bromley Inn, Hamilton township, N. J.

The following 25-year members will receive awards: Harry Bunting, John W. Burgess, George Burgner, Elwood Burton, Harry Carlin, Howard Hartsough, William G. Kelly, Howard Murray, James R. Tamney, Alvin Pratt, and the posthumous award to Dr. Klenk.

The committee planning the affair is led by Robert Patterson assisted by Robert Newell, Edward Roberts, Alfred Rose, Henry Roberts, Albert Roberts, Roland Gorton, Robert Wolf, Nicholas Sayko, and Robert Margerum.
